Risk and Coverage Implications for Mobile Apps and Social Media Platforms

Speaker: Dennis J Nolan, Shareholder, Anderson Kill

Consumers—and therefore businesses—rely on mobile apps to perform an ever-widening range of functions. As with any new technology, there are risks involved. Often, mobile app users input highly sensitive data, including financial and health details. Mobile app use has accordingly triggered new waves of regulatory actions and civil litigation. This session will cover risks associated with the use of mobile apps and social media, including types of insurance that may respond to these risks.
